Project Overview

The Daniel Society Women's Economic Development Club of Lusoke Village is the first chapter of a project designed to lift women and their families out of extreme poverty in Zambia. The Club's mission is to promote hope, entrepreneurship and self-sufficiency to women who desire to start her own small business.

Once launched, the Club will provide seed capital for business micro-loans, financial training for 20 to 30 aspiring women entrepreneurs, and savings plans for school fees. Further, the Club will empower its members to become change agents in the village by reinvesting in the Club to sustain its funding level and help lift more families out of extreme poverty. The Daniel Society believes that a combination of capital and education will promote self-sufficiency, productivity, and confidence among Club members.

The Daniel Society is a 501(c)(3) Brooklyn-based organization that has designed smart and compassionate initiatives to reduce global poverty, fight injustice and empower people to hope again. Learn more at www.danielsociety.org.
